The meeting was organized by the Department of Greek Studies at the University of Cyprus, and was supported by the Cyprus Research and Innovation Foundation. The meeting was a great success, and provided a valuable opportunity for young researchers to share their work and to learn from each other.

Keynote Speakers

The meeting featured two keynote speakers: Professor George Gavrillis from the University of Athens and Professor Maria Loizou from the University of Cyprus.

Professor Gavrilis's keynote address was entitled "Cypriot: A Living Language in a Changing World." In his address, Professor Gavrilis discussed the history of the Cypriot language, its current status, and the challenges that it faces. He argued that Cypriot is a vibrant and dynamic language that is spoken by a large and diverse population of people in Cyprus and around the world.

Professor Loizou's keynote address was entitled "Cypriot Literature: A Rich and Diverse Tradition." In her address, Professor Loizou discussed the history of Cypriot literature, from its earliest beginnings to the present day. She argued that Cypriot literature is a rich and diverse tradition that has produced a wide range of works, including poetry, prose, drama, and folklore.
