Behold the M50 Ontos, a unique and deadly tank destroyer armed with an astonishing six recoilless rifles. Its compact size and low profile made it an ideal ambush predator, lurking among the dense jungle vegetation of Vietnam. With its ability to unleash a devastating barrage of fire, the Ontos proved to be a formidable opponent on the battlefield.

The M56 Scorpion: A Sting in the Jungle

Introducing the M56 Scorpion, a swift and agile tank destroyer designed for reconnaissance and anti-tank warfare. Its lightweight aluminum construction and powerful 90mm gun allowed it to engage enemy armor with precision and speed. The Scorpion's distinctive appearance, with its open-top turret and crew exposed to the elements, became an iconic sight in the Vietnam conflict.

The M551 Sheridan: A Revolutionary Light Tank

Step into the realm of the M551 Sheridan, a revolutionary light tank that combined firepower, mobility, and amphibious capabilities. Armed with a unique 152mm gun-launcher, the Sheridan could switch between conventional ammunition and guided missiles, making it a versatile weapon against both armored and infantry targets. Its ability to swim across rivers and navigate difficult terrain proved invaluable in the challenging environment of Vietnam.
